Obama Administration to Make Amnesty a Priority

President Barack Obama promised a group of pro-illegal alien Congressmen that he would tackle “comprehensive immigration reform” this year. “Comprehensive immigration reform” is Washington-speak for amnesty.

“The President just promised the Congressional Hispanic Congress that Amnesty is a top priority of his administration,” says Brice Griffin, Executive Director of the U.S. Border Security Council. “Well, if it is a fight he wants, it is a fight he will get,” she promised.

The illegal alien lobby and its allies on Capitol Hill have been worried in recent weeks that President Obama had forgotten them in his mad rush to implement his political agenda.

The President called a meeting to assuage the concerns of the Congressional Hispanic Caucus, where he made his promise.

“It is amazing to me how determined these politicians are to ram amnesty down the throats of the American people,” says Griffin. “You would think that appeasing illegal aliens and allowing them to steal American jobs and loot our country was wildly popular.”

The President “was clear and eloquent and determined to let us

More Agents to Border as Chaos Escalates

President Obama has ordered additional federal agents to the U.S.-Mexican border in the face of mounting violence and civil unrest in Mexico.

Thirty-seven agents from the Bureau of Alcohol Tobacco and Firearms are being redeployed to the region, plus as many as 90 Immigration and Customs Enforcement agents.

“It is about time the administration did something,” remarks U.S. Border Security Council Executive Director Brice Griffin. “However, one hundred additional agents is not nearly enough. Mexico is coming apart at the seams. The U.S. military should be sent to reinforce our border and if necessary crush the drug cartels.”

Illegal aliens are no longer the biggest problem along the border. Drug cartels and the Mexican army are fighting each other for control over northern Mexico. So far, the Mexican army is losing badly, and the Drug Lords are winning.

Border Security News in Brief

The U.S. Border Patrol is using music to dissuade Mexicans from attempting the dangerous trek across the border. American officials have recorded ballads that tell the story of how dangerous the border is to the tunes of traditional Mexican folk songs. The songs are then played on Mexican radio. Listeners in Mexico are apparently unaware of the songs' origins.

President Obama recently signed an order granting another twelve month reprieve to immigrants from Liberia who are facing expulsion from the United States. Immigrants from the small African nation first received "temporary protected status" in 1991 due to the civil war in Liberia. When the civil war ended, then President George W. Bush revoked their special status. However, he did grant an extension allowing the Liberians to stay. Obama's order extends the Liberians', stay in the U.S. even more.

Border Patrol agents are planning to kill off plants along a one mile stretch of the border along the Rio Grande River in an effort to uncover smuggling routes. Officials say drug and immigrant smugglers try to hide from American authorities. Environmental groups are, of course, protesting the program. If the effort proves useful, the Border Patrol says that it will expand the program to other areas of the border region.

SNEAK OF THE MONTH: Attorney General Eric Holder

Attorney General Eric Holder is this month's "Sneak of the Month" for beginning an "investigation" into the successful law enforcement efforts of Sheriff Joe Arpaio in Arizona. Arpaio is often referred to as "America's Toughest Sheriff" because of his zero tolerance for law-breakers and tough treatment of criminals.

Holder is investigating the good sheriff for "patterns" of discriminatory police practices and unconstitutional searches and seizures.

Pro-illegal alien groups turned to Holder after he was sworn in as Attorney General hoping that Holder could use his office to stop Arpaio's efforts to arrest illegal aliens.

Apparently, the Attorney General is only too happy to oblige.

know that we are all together in the route of comprehensive immigration reform,” Democratic lawmaker Luis Gutierrez announced to reporters after the meeting.

“The first step will apparently be to hold some type of public forum where illegal aliens will whine and cry and lie about how much they love America,” warns Griffin. “It will no doubt be a huge spectacle orchestrated by the White House and using taxpayer dollars designed to con the American people into supporting Amnesty,” she adds. “However, it is not going to work.”

According to Griffin many lawmakers will be irked that the White House wants them to vote on amnesty now, during an economic recession. “Moderate Members of Congress don’t want to have to vote on amnesty,” she explains.

The President has come under increasing pressure to beef up U.S. security along the border in recent weeks. Drug lords have deployed well armed fighters throughout the border region to fight Mexican military and police forces.

Many Mexican officials from border towns have either been killed, bought off by the drug lords or have fled with their families to the relative safety of the United States.

As the violence increases, so does the likelihood that it will spill across the border and endanger American citizens.

“Already Phoenix is one of the kidnapping capitals of the world. Our agents working the border have to wear bullet proof vests and

“These politicians want to be re-elected and voting to permanently give jobs away to illegals is the fastest way to lose your job.”

Many Democrats will be torn between supporting the President and Hispanic voters or siding with the American people, she says. “My job is to make sure these Members understand that the American people don’t want amnesty for illegals. They want our borders secured.”

Griffin promises to undertake a massive effort to stop the President's amnesty plan. “We are going to pound Congress as hard as we can. We are going to swamp them with petitions. We are going to deluge them with phone calls. We are going to kill this proposal just like we killed President Bush's drive for amnesty two years ago.”

Griffin says the Council will soon be sending out urgent appeals to all its supporters across the country urging them to help in the anti-amnesty fight. “We need everyone's help. We need money. We need volunteers. This is going to be an epic battle. However, once we succeed I don't think we will be seeing another amnesty bill brought before Congress any time soon.

vocates have blamed Americans for the violence claiming that the drug dealers' weapons are coming from the United States.

“The violence on the border is the result of drug cartels being allowed by a corrupt Mexican government to get too big and too powerful. The Mexican government is too weak to break free from the cartels' grip,” Griffin explains. “Additionally, reports I have received say many of the weapons being used by the drug gangs are made overseas. People in the U.S. Government need to wake up.”

From the Executive Director:

As they say in the sports world -- Game On!

It seems the President is going to make a full-out push for amnesty for illegal aliens this year.

That is fine with me. It really is.

Now you and I get to show the media, the illegal alien apologists and the sleazy "open borders" politicians that the American people will not be denied. No Amnesty for Illegal Aliens!

It would, of course, be nice if the politicians simply secured the border and forced the illegal aliens to go home. However, politicians are like children. Sometimes they need to learn things the hard way. And sometimes they need to learn the same lesson more than once before it sticks.

That is how I feel about amnesty.

This upcoming battle will be a way for you and me to teach the politicians a lesson -- one that they will not soon forget.

Let's Roll!

Census Shenanigans: Will Pro-Illegals Activists Rig the Count?

The radical Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now (ACORN) has partnered with the U.S. Census Bureau to recruit workers to conduct the 2010 census.

"This group is very bad news, says U.S. Border Security Council President Brice Griffin. "ACORN is effectively a criminal enterprise that supports illegal aliens and other left-wing causes. If ACORN operatives are involved in taking the census you can be sure the results will be skewed to help the open borders lobby."

ACORN has come under fire for illegally registering voters in last year's election as well as protesting the evictions of illegal aliens from homes purchased with loans obtained through fraud.

"ACORN-sponsored census takers will simply make up numbers in order to help their political cause," Griffin explains. "The census is used to determine congressional district boundaries and to set welfare funding formulas. ACORN has every incentive to undermine and manipulate the census taking process."
