Council Unveils 2011 Legislative Goals

The U.S. Border Security has already finalized its 2011 legislative goals and is preparing an unprecedented grassroots lobbying effort designed to achieve them.

At the top of the agenda is holding the line against Amnesty Plus. So far, the Council's efforts have prevented a vote on an amnesty bill.

The Council believes it can continue to bottle up such a bill no matter what happens in the November elections.

"Amnesty Plus is our number one priority and we are going to go all out to keep it from ever coming up for a vote," explains Council spokesman Steve LeBlanc.

Next on the list is supporting expanding border security efforts including sending combat troops to

LeBlanc Calls for Citizens to Rally in Defense of Sheriff Joe Arpaio

The U.S. Border Security Council is standing firmly behind Maricopa County, Arizona Sheriff Joe Arpaio who is under assault from President Obama's Justice Department for zealously enforcing the nation's immigration laws.

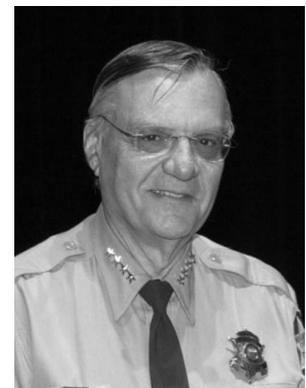

Arpaio is often called "America's Toughest Sheriff" because of his dedication to the law and his refusal to coddle criminals.

Recently, he has come under attack from pro-illegal alien activists and the Obama administration for his support of Arizona's popular new immigration enforcement law. The Justice Department is suing Arpaio for treating illegal immigrants too harshly in his jail.

"Sheriff Arpaio is an American hero," explains U.S. Border Security Council spokesman Steve LeBlanc. "Our nation needs more law enforcement officers like him. He understands that we cannot let these trespassers run wild throughout our country and more importantly, he is willing to do the right thing and enforce the law despite

The U.S. Border Security Council fully supports the efforts of "America's Toughest Sheriff" Joe Arpaio. The Obama Administration is suing the sheriff because he is tough on illegal aliens.

Border Security News in Brief

Whooping Cough Ravages California

California is on track to break a 55-year record in whooping cough infections in an epidemic that has already claimed the lives of nine children. The dangerous disease that was once thought to be practically eliminated in the United States is making a rapid comeback because of massive unregulated immigration from South America.

Voters Disapprove of Obama on Immigration

American voters by a wide margin, 60 to 28 percent, disapprove of the way President Barack Obama is handling illegal immigration, and by an even wider margin, 68 to 25 percent, they favor stricter enforcement over integrating illegal immigrants into U.S. society, according to a new national poll by Quinnipiac University.

Groups Protest Using Fingerprints to ID Illegals

The Department of Homeland Security (DHS) has a backlog of over 500,000 fugitive illegal aliens. Fugitive illegal aliens are individuals who were apprehended by U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) for being in the United States illegally and then were released ahead of their court proceedings and deemed fugitive when they failed to appear in court.

SNEAK OF THE MONTH: Circuit Court Judge Chief Theodore McKee

The Chief of the Third U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, Judge Theodore McKee is this month's "Sneak of the Month" for ruling that Hazleton, PA, may not enforce its landmark crackdown on illegal immigrants

The court said that Hazleton's Illegal Immigration Relief Act usurped the federal government's exclusive power to regulate immigration.

"It is not our job to sit in judgment of whether state and local frustration about federal immigration policy is warranted. We are, however, required to intervene when states and localities directly undermine the federal objectives embodied in statutes enacted by Congress," wrote Chief Judge Theodore McKee.

the southern border, completing the border fence and driving the Mexican drug lords from U.S. territory.

“I believe that political will can be mustered on Capitol Hill in order to force President Obama to secure the border,” LeBlanc adds. “The situation is so bad, and from our research we can tell the American people desperately want the border to be militarized and our sovereignty protected.”

The third action item on the Council’s 2011 legislative agenda is to support a permanent implementation of the E-Verify system for checking employment eligibility. Pro-illegal alien activists are vehemently opposed to E-Verify and they have been working overtime to prevent its permanent implementations.

Next, the Council wants the new health care law amended to prohibit illegal aliens from receiving medical benefits paid for by the American taxpayers.

“Despite the Obama Administration’s protests, the health care law absolutely does extend free health care to illegal aliens and that provision has to go,” LeBlanc warns.

Other agenda items include fighting efforts to weaken laws that make it difficult for illegal aliens to acquire drivers licenses, preventing illegal aliens from receiving other types of federal benefits and even strengthening public health and safety laws to prevent illegal aliens from endangering the American people.

“This is an ambitious agenda to be sure,” LeBlanc remarks. “However, the Council is growing and politically-speaking, the American people want our government to crack down on illegal aliens and to secure our borders. With the help of all our supporters, 2011 will be a historic year.”

what many politicians want. That’s why he’s public enemy number one of the open borders movement.”

The federal government has been demanding reams of documents from the Maricopa County Sheriff’s Office as part of a massive fishing expedition aimed at finding evidence that Arpaio has mistreated Hispanic prisoners or unfairly targeted them in his law enforcement sweeps. When Arpaio refused to cooperate with the witch hunt, the Justice Department filed suit.

“This is clearly a case of the Obama Administration trying to persecute this brave law enforcement officer for doing his job,” LeBlanc explains. “He is doing nothing wrong by rounding up illegal aliens. In fact, he’s being attacked solely because he is doing his job. The U.S. Border Security Council stands firmly behind Joe Arpaio.”

“Sheriff Arpaio is an American hero,” explains U.S. Border Security Council spokesman Steve LeBlanc. “Our nation needs more law enforcement officers like him.”

LeBlanc says that the Council will make defending Arpaio in the court of public opinion and on Capitol Hill a top priority in 2011.

“We are working on a grassroots strategy to defend Sheriff Joe but for the moment, we are putting the White House and the goons in the Justice Department on notice that the American people and the U.S. Border Security Council will not tolerate this nonsense,” he explains.

“I hope all of our supporters will urge their elected representatives to stand by Joe Arpaio,” LeBlanc urges. “If the Administration is allowed to prevail in this battle, then law enforcement officers across the nation will be afraid of the political repercussions of enforcing our nation’s immigration laws. That would be a tragedy.”

Dear Friend,

It seems we succeeded in preventing Congress and Barack Obama from granting amnesty to millions of illegal aliens this year.

Next year, however, is another story.

No matter how this month's elections turn out, the next Congress will still be populated by a great many supporters of amnesty.

You and I must keep fighting.

By the time the new Congress arrives in Washington this January, the U.S. Border Security Council will be ready to do battle.

As you will see by reading this month's top story, we have outlined an ambitious legislative agenda for next year. Soon we will be asking you and thousands of our supporter across America to help us implement it.

Fighting to Protect America,

Border Security Questions for Your Elected Representatives

With a new Congress soon taking office, U.S. Border Security Council supporters should be prepared to hold your elected officials feet to the fire.

Here are some critical questions you should ask your Congressmen, Senators or their staff representatives.

1) Will you vote to strip all coverage for illegal aliens out of President Obama's massive government-run health care bill? Currently illegal aliens can receive taxpayer subsidized medical care under this new law.

2) Will you support placing the American military on the U.S.-Mexican border in sufficient numbers to stop the flow of illegal aliens into America and to take back U.S. territory that is currently under the influence of Mexican drug gangs?

3) Do you support E-Verify? Will you vote against any funding bill for the Department of Homeland Security that doesn't include a permanent extension of this program that allows employers to verify whether or not job applicants may legally work in the U.S.

4) Will you oppose any effort to weaken federal laws regarding driver's licences?

5) Will you vote against any immigration bill that allows individuals who are here illegally to remain in the country and obtain legal residence status without at least leaving America first?

6) Will you support and defend Law Enforcement officer's responsibility to enforce the Nation's immigration laws?
